My mind was vigilant seeking what would be useful. I created clay fields, to cover their tombs in the necropolis. These were works that hadn't been done before.

What was ordered to me to be done there happened thoroughly.

so that he would govern the Black Land and rule the Red Land, having taken possession of the Two Banks in triumph.

I was a confidant of the king in each of his offices.
He did more for me than others before. I reached the old age of the honoured elders.

I was in the favour of His Majesty every day, I was served from the table of the king, with bread from the royal breakfast, also beer, rich meat, vegetables, different kinds of fruit, honey, cakes, wine and ben oil.

I was greeted with 'health and life!' and His Majesty himself said it, for love for me.

He went to heaven and united with the gods.

His son took his place as king of the Two Lands and he ruled on the throne of his begetter. His sister, the god's wife Hatshepsut,
